Disgrifiad / Description
Miss Gwendoline Davies has presented Poems by George Herbert, printed at the Gregynog Press, 1923, being No. 3 of 100 copies on hand-made paper (Dept of Printed Books). This copy, by Miss Davies's direction, has been specially bound in blue Levant morocco at the Gregynog bindery. The Gregynog Press was recently established as part of a scheme for the improvement of arts and crafts in Wales. The first volume to be printed there is an excellent illustration of what may be achieved by careful attention to the details of book-craft.
Wales has had but few private printing presses. The most famous is the Hafod Press established by Thomas Johnes about 1803 which ceased after about seven years of splendid activity. The press established at Dowlais by Colonel G. T. Clark printed two books, some account of Sir Robert Mansel and of Admiral Thomas Button, 1883, and the first volume of Cartae et alia munimenta quae ad dominium de Glamorgan pertinent, 1885. The succeeding volumes of this work were printed at Cardiff, and so far as I know Colonel Clark did not print anything further. The Gregynog Press is therefore the third in order of time of private presses in Wales. The high standard of its first book assures for the press an important place in the craft, and subscribers to its publications are to be congratulated.

Dear Sir,

From time to time during several years various friends, more particularly Rev. R. Jenkin Jones, Aberdare, and Rev. T. Arthur Thomas, Llandyssul, have suggested that the MS. diaries of my grandfather, Timothy Davis, Gresham, son of David Davis, Castell Hywel, "Telyn Dewi", together with sundry papers concerned with events in his or his father's life ought to be deposited in a library where they could be consulted by properly qualified persons of historical and literary purposes, because of the information (perhaps chiefly biographical) they can give in connection with the history of Nonconformity in South Wales during the earlier half of last century.

To-day I have despatched to Rev. T. Arthur Thomas, that he may have opportunity to look through before passing on, a parcel containing:

1. 10 quarto MS. books of diary of Timothy Davis.
2. 1 foolscap MS. books of diary of Timothy Davis.
3. Quarto MS. book of copies of letters from David Davies, Neath: copies apparently made by D. D.
5. Indenture with the signature Timothy Jacob.
6. Letter from Evan Evans, Cantab, 1776, and 1 from W. Tong.
7. Envelope containing certificate for ordination of Timothy Davis, and letter from David Davis relating thereto.
8. Envelope containing printed Davis genealogy, and MS. notes thereon by Rev. R. Jenkin Jones.
9. Envelope containing letters from Rev. R. Jenkin Jones relating to the diaries (I think, - from memory only, - did not look up), these may include an examination of the question, if it is a question, whether David Davis himself translated Gray's Elegy ("Better than the original"), or whether he entered a translation by another into his Commonplace Book.
10. Envelope containing one printed and various MS. sundries. Kindly destroy any not wanted.

The above I have pleasure in offering to the National Library, and I shall be glad if they can be accepted.

I offer them not as a deposit for the time being, but as a permanent possession.

At the same time I should be glad if it is allowable, that note should be made for future reference, that should I find opportunity to collate matter dealing with the domestic life of our family, of which the diaries contain much, at my request one or more volumes of the diary should at my expense be temporarily returned to me for that purpose. For 30 or 40 years I have wished to do this, but have been unable. It is very unlikely I shall ever be able to (I am 70), still it is within the limits of possibility that I may, and so I make this request.

I omitted to say above that two days ago I received Rev. R. Jenkin Jones's willing consent that his letters, notes, corrigenda and addenda relating to diaries and genealogy should accompany the diaries and genealogy.

Yours faithfully
Rudolf Davis.

The work, unlike the same author's translation of Paradise Lost, has not been published. Gwilym Hiraethog, in a letter re-printed in Y Geninen, 1898, pp. 70-1, refers to this translation and expresses the opinion that it deserved to be printed.

GORONWY OWEN

Adroddiad Blynyddol / Annual Report 1923-24
Disgrifiad / Description
MS. copy of the letters of Goronwy Owen (NLW MS 4947B). This manuscript was used by the late Isaac Floukes, "Llyfrbryf", Liverpool, for the edition of Llythyrau Goronwy Owen, ed. by Prof. Sir John Morris Jones, published in 1895.
In the Preface Floukes states that 19 letters (out of 49 included in the 1895 edition) were taken out of this MS. which he describes as contemporary with Goronwy Owen, with handwriting similar to that of the poet. Floukes surmised that the book may have been used by Goronwy Owen himself to preserve copies of his letters, and adds the note that the differences in text are only what might be expected when a writer re-writes his work.
Principal J. H. Davies, in The Letters of Goronwy Owen, 1924, says:-
"In the preface to the 1895 edition it is stated that nineteen of the letters were copied from a transcript contemporary with Goronwy, and it is suggested that they may have been written by Goronwy himself in the book. This suggestion is disproved by the fact that one of the letters in the book is a copy of the letter sent by Goronwy to Richard Morris from America in 1767, ten years after Goronwy had left this country. Moreover, nearly all the letters are addressed to Richard Morris, and one fails to see why the author should have kept copies of the letters he sent over a period of four years to one brother and no copies of the letters he sent to the other brothers."
Mr Hugh Lloyd, in a letter to the Librarian says:-
"Had Principal Davies seen the MS. I sent to you before he published his Letters of Goronwy Owen he would have found stronger proofs than he states for denying the claim of Isaac Floukes that the handwriting was really Goronwy's own ... I am inclined to believe that the copyist was Thomas Williams, Coed Cochion." Mr Lloyd points out that this name occurs in the MS. 'Thomas Williams, Coed Cochion, 1792.'
Mr Lloyd is probably correct. The handwriting is very similar to that of Thomas Williams of Coed Cochion found in NLW MS 344D.
Isaac Floukes states that the MS. came into his possession at the sale of the library of the late Canon Wynne-Edwards, vicar of Llanrhaiadr-yng-Nghinmeirch.

Welsh and English books, including parts of Welsh periodicals (Dept of Printed Books). A MS. on 183 leaves of paper, being Notes of Sermons in English by Hugh Rogers, beginning 7e March, 1657 (NLW MS 4938A). Probably Hugh Rogers the itinerant who, according to Richards's Puritan Movement in Wales, 1920, served first in Monmouth, and then at Newtown, Montgomeryshire. He was "ejected" from Newtown at the Restoration. On folio 26 is the note: "At N[ova] Villa 13 June, 1658," and on p. 44 "preached at Newtowne."
The late Richard Williams in Montgomeryshire Worthies, 1884, writes:-
The Rev. Hugh Rogers, Rector of Newtown, was ejected for Nonconformity in 1662. Philip Henry gives him the following character:- "Mr Hugh Rogers, a worthy faithful minister of Jesus Christ, turned out for Nonconformity from Newtown, in Montgomeryshire, was buried at Welshpool, March 17th, 1680. He was looked upon as Congregational, but his declared judgement was 'That ministers ought to be ordained by ministers, and to give themselves wholly to that work; and that none but ministers have authority to preach in a constituted church; and that Christ's ministers are His ministers in all places; and that where the word of Christ is preached, and His sacraments administered, there is a true Church!' He was a man of excellent converse, an whose peculiar felicity lay in pleasant and edifying discourse."

A volume containing letters and newspaper cuttings relating to the visit which Sir Marchant Williams made in the year 1913 to Canada in company with Sir John Courtis, Sir William Davies and Mr Sidney W. Pugh, as guests of the Canadian Government (NLW MS 4861D).
It was intended that Sir Marchant Williams should extend his tour by a brief visit to the United States, and Mr Blackwell, with an enthusiastic group of Welshmen, had planned to give him a warm welcome to New York, Scranton, and other places if time permitted. The letters in the volume reveal the warmth of the projected welcome, and the unfortunate combination of circumstances which not only prevented the plan being carried out, but unhappily, led to the breakdown in health which shortened Sir Marchant's life.
The volume has been sent to the National Library through Sir William Davies, of the Western Mail, Cardiff. It is a fine example of Mr Blackwell's taste and skill as a book binder. The letters and cuttings are mounted on the best hand-made paper, half-bound in Levant morocco by Mr Blackwell himself, while his son-in-law has added a title page which is a choice piece of work with pen and ink.

Two examples of 'charms' given by a 'dyn hysbys,' i.e. soothsayer, to individuals to protect them from witchcraft (NLW MS 4937E). They are written in English and Latin and contain occult formalae and diagrams. Both were given to one Thomas Thomas, probably by two different soothsayers, to protect him and his family and his farm stock against witchcraft and diseases.
Two similar examples were received in 1915 from the Rev. T. D. James, Llanerfyl Rectory, Welshpool.
Two volumes of manuscript music, containing hymn - and psalm-tunes and anthems, collected and some composed by Richard Ellis (1775-1855), of Dolgelley, composer of several hymn - and psalm-tunes and a few anthems, some of which are still to be found in Welsh tune-books (NLW MSS 4935C, 4936A). In 1810 he published:-
"Casgliad o Salmau, Hymnau, ac Anthemau Dewisedig, yn Gymraeg a Saesoneg. Y rhai a arferir eu canu, yn Eglwys Dolgelly, gan Blant yr Ys gol Sabbothawl, a gasglwyd ac a gyhoeddwyd, gan Richard Ellis, Athraw Cerddwriaeth. Dolgelleu: Argraphwyd gan R. Jones. Mr Evan Owen of Liverpool, who died 6 January 1924, bequeathed to the National Library all the Welsh and English books in his library relating to the Baptist connection, and any other books and pamphlets which the Library might select (NLW MSS 10443-548). The collection includes two bound volumes of the North Wales Baptists Circular Letters (1860-1917); three volumes of Llawlyfr Undeb Bedyddwyr Cymru (1877-1889), and the manuscript of the biography of the late Mrs Evan Owen (NLW MS 10536A), as well as a large number of denominational periodicals and Baptist chapel reports, etc.

A Looking-Glasse for all true hearted Chrisians ... by Lewis Hughes, printed by T and M. S., London, 1642. Lewis Hughes, a Welshman, was Chaplain at the Bermudas, being one of the earliest settlers in those islands. He was several times accused of non-conformity and railings against the church. Most of his writings deal with these charges and his suggestions for the reform of the church service. This rare tract has a curious woodcut on the title-page. A photostat copy of Hughes's petition, 1625, to the Privy Council, giving an account of his many troubles, was obtained recently.

LATIN TREATISE ON ROMAN AND CANON LAW

Bwyddyn / Year
Adroddiad Blynyddol / Annual Report 1923-24
Disgrifiad / Description
260 Printed volumes and one manuscript. The manuscript is a Latin treatise on Roman and Canon Law written in a 17th century hand. It deals with the Law of nature (Lex Naturæ) and its relation to other Laws governing the thoughts and actions of men. The thesis is divided into two main divisions. The author submits his work to the Pope for the removal of any error of sin to be found in it. The treatise resulting from a close study of the Roman Law and with special reference to the question of the powers a King might have over his subjects. In the 17th century many treatises were written on this subject; all ancient writings, ecclesiastical and secular, were drawn upon in support of the various contentions put forward for the justification of kingly power and the limits of that power. The Stuart claim to rule by divine right gave an impetus to treatises of this kind. The present treatises deals with the subject of the "Jus regale" in its relation to the "Jus naturae". The space given to the rights of women to royal power is significant when we remember that the writer was a Roman Catholic who evidently had the reign of Queen Elizabeth in mind, as was the case with most writers during that period.

The printed books include a number of Quaker items, collected and individual biographies and journals, periodicals, and the works of prominent Quaker writers - Edward Ash, John Crook, Josiah Forster, Priscilla Gurney, Wm. Sewell, Thos. Wagstaffe, etc. (Dept of Printed Books)

The remainder of the collection comprises theological works of a general nature (Dept of Printed Books) including three pamphlets by or relating to the late Rev. Prebendary Thos. Auden; three volumes of pamphlets by Wm. Huntington (1745-1813), the eccentric preacher who appended to his name the letters S.S. (sinner saved); a set of Thirty Thousand Thoughts (6 vols) edited by H.D.M. Spence Jones, Dean of Gloucester, and others; and a number of works by classical writers, etc.

Adroddiad Blynyddol / Annual Report 1923-24
Disgrifiad / Description
Two interleaved copies with manuscript notes of the text of poems published by Celtic scholar, the late W.F. Skene, under the title The Four Ancient Books of Wales (NLW MSS 4974-5C).
It will be recalled that Skene published in two volumes in 1868 the poetry from the Black Book of Carmarthen, the Book of Aneirin, the book of Taliesin, and the Red Book of Hergest, with translations into English and notes. The translation was to be made by Chancellor Silvan Evans and Canon Robert Williams of Rhydycroesau, and for the purpose of providing them with printed copies of the text, Skene had the poetry put in type five years before the whole work was published.
The volumes presented by Dr Daniell may be either copies of the text so printed in 1863 and used in connection with the work of editing, or else, as Dr Daniell suggests, copies used by Skene in preparing a second edition which was projected but not published. One copy has translation of some of the poems in what Dr Daniell, who knew Skene well, describes as the autograph of Skene.

In the half-yearly report in May it was stated that Rev. Rudolf Davis, Gloucester, great-grandson of David Davis, "Dafis Castell Hywel", had sent a group of manuscripts and personalia relating to David Davis, his sons David Davis of Neath, Timothy Davis, and others.
Mr Rudolf Davis has since sent further material relating to the Davis family (NLW MSS 5487-8B, 5489-90C, 5491B, 5492-4C, 5495B, 5496D, 5497E, 5498-9C) including press cuttings of a discussion in the Western Mail in 1907 on the translation of Gray's Elegy into Welsh by Dafis Castell Hywel. One person who took part in the discussion was the late Mrs Puddicombe, "Allen Raine", the novelist, who was a great-grand-daughter of David Davis. In sending the gift Mr Rudolf Davis recalls in the following words the sad circumstances in which Allen Raine wrote some of her stories:-
"One of the most pathetic things in literature surely, - the picture of her who was so radiant a girl, sitting for hours day after day holding her invalid husband's hand with her left hand (he could not bear her away) while with her right she wrote the novels that were to bring the needed bread and butter."

Manuscripts, including letters, note-books, diaries, sermons and memoranda of Rev. Thomas Morgan of Henllan (1720-99), Presbyterian minister and author, and of his son Thomas Morgan (NLW MSS 5452-73).
When Dr Thomas Rees wrote the History of Protestant Nonconformity in Wales (1861, second edition 1883), and, later, collaborated with Dr John Thomas of Liverpool in Hanes Eglwysig Annibynol Cymru, one of the principal sources of his information was the manuscript collection now presented by Principal Evans.
Some time ago the manuscripts were lent by Principal Evans to Professor John Morgan Jones, Bala-Bangor College, Bangor, who has described some of them in the first number of Y Cofiadur, the organ of the Welsh Congregational Historical Society.
A native of Egwlysian, Glamorgan, Thomas Morgan served in the ministry at Henllan, Carmarthenshire; Delph, Yorkshire; and Morley, near Leeds. He published several works, wrote largely to the Gentleman's Magazine, and engaged in controversy with Joseph Priestley.

The papers and diaries were given to Principal Evans in 1900 by Mr S L Nussey, of Ilkley, and a schedule of them was made at that time. In addition to a typescript copy of this schedule, and letters giving the history of the manuscripts, Principal Evans has sent extracts from the Cilgwyn Church Book, made several years ago by W D Jeremy (author of The Presbyterian Fund and Dr Daniel Williams's Trust). The Cilgwyn register, a valuable source book for the history of Nonconformity in West Wales, has unfortunately been missing for some years.

Two MS. volumes of Sermons in English preached at various times from 1706 to 1726 by the Hon. and Rev. Edward Finch, Prebendary of York Minster (NLW MSS 4940-1B). The writer has carefully noted when and where the sermons were preached. Thus, one sermon was preached, amongst other places, at York Minster, Canterbury Cathedral, the Chapel Royal before Queen Ann, May 11, 1712, and at the same place on May 1, 1726 before King George I, the Prince of Wales, and other members of the Royal family. Of another sermon, which he preached at the Royal Chapel, St. James's, May 1st, 1715, before King George I, the Prince, the Princess and distinguished representatives of the nobility and the Church, he tells us the manuscript was given to the Princess.
The MSS are in the autograph of the author, the Honourable and Reverend Edward Finch, (1664-1738), who was the fifth son of Heneage Finch, first earl of Nottingham. Edward Finch was fellow of Christ College, Cambridge, and represented his University in the Parliament of 1689-90. He was ordained deacon in 1700, became rector of Wigan, and was appointed Prebendary of York in 1704. In 1710 he was installed prebendary of Canterbury.
He was also a musician of note. His 'Te Deum' and an anthem 'Grant we beseech Thee', are in one of the Harleian MSS. at the British Museum. Another MS. of 76 pages in the Euing Library at Glasgow, is 'A Grammar of Thorough Bass'.
The family was connected with Wales. Edward Finch's niece, the Lady Essex Finch, (daughter of his brother Daniel, 2nd Earl of Nottingham and 7th Earl of Winchilsea) was the wife of Sir Roger Mostyn, 3rd baronet, of Mostyn. The MSS. were given to the late Mr James Morton of Christleton, Cheshire, father of the donor, by Rev. Thomas Lloyd, nephew of the 1st Baron Mostyn of Mostyn. Thomas Lloyd was vicar of Christleton, and died unmarried about 1874.
The Battle of Waterloo, containing a series of accounts published by authority, British and foreign. 9th edition. London, 1816. Coloured plates, including folding panoramic sketch of the site of the battle. This volume has the signature of Bell Lloyd of Crogen, co. Merioneth, father of Rev. Thomas Lloyd mentioned above.

CARREG-LWYD
An extensive and valuable collection of documents to be known as the Carreglwyd Papers. The collection was partly described by John Cordy Jeaffreson in the appendix to the fifth report of the Royal Commission on Historical MSS, 1876, pp. 405-23. Mr Jeaffreson dealt more particularly with the papers which relate to national affairs. The collection, however, contains a large number of papers dealing with Anglesey and other parts of North West Wales, especially during the xvith, xviith century, which supplement the Wynn of Gwydir papers of which a calendar is now passing through the press. The two collections, Gwydir and Carreglwyd, have several points of affinity. Sir Richard Wynn, eldest son of Sir John Wynn of Gwydir, was Groom of the Chamber to Charles I while Prince of Wales, and afterwards Treasurer to Queen Henrietta Maria. Many of the Gwydir papers derive their importance from Sir Richard Wynn's positions at Court. Contemporary with him was John Griffith, a lawyer of Gray's Inn, who was for several years Secretary to Henry, Earl of Northampton, Lord Privy Seal to James I. Griffith was the trusted friend of the Earl of Northampton, and one of the executors of his will. The Carreglwyd collection of papers derives its importance mainly from the documents carefully preserved by John Griffith, who lived through the Civil War, the Commonwealth, and the Restoration.

A more detailed report will be made when the papers have been arranged and catalogued.

Major Holland Griffith, with fine public spirit, readily agreed to deposit the collection in the National Library to ensure their preservation, and in order that they may be available for use for literary and historical purposes.

PRINTED WORKS & ROBERT OWEN, NEWTOWN

2. A bound volume, which belonged to George Grant Francis, consisting of three books and other pamphlets relating to Swansea, with manuscript notes, interleaved and extra illustrated. Cast of the Coligny Calendar (Dept of Pictures and Maps).

3. In November 1897, fragments of a lengthy inscription on bronze were found at Coligny, near Lyons, together with fragments of a fine statue of a nude god. All were taken to the Museum at Lyons and after examination were pieced together, as far as possible by M. Pual Dissard, head of the Museum. M. Dissard saw that the fragments of the inscription originally formed part of a Calendar for 5 years in the Celtic language of Ancient Gaul. Other scholars (notably the late Sir John Rhys and W. W. B. Nicholson, Bodley's Librarian) examined afterwards the Calendar, and Sir John Rhys published in 1905 (Celtae and Galli) and in 1910 (The Coligny Calendar) accounts of it and explanations of the parts that survive. The Calendar has been assigned to the middle of the first century A.D.
The great events of the Celtic year were associated with the beginnings of May (Calan Mai, May 12) and November (Calan Gaeaf, November 12) and Rhys has identified the names of the months on the Calendar as follows:

CANTLOS = May.
SAMON = June. cf. Welsh Haf.
DUMAN = July.
RIVROS = August.
ANACANTIOS = September.
OGRON = October.
QUTIOS = November.
GIAMON = December. cf. Welsh Gaeaf.
SIMIVIS = January.
EQVOS = February.
ELEMBIV = March.
EDRIN = April.

Each month is divided into two parts separated by the word ATENOUX.
The Cast has been framed and glazed and will be hung in the Exhibition Gallery.

The Great Chalice of Antioch (Dept of Printed Books).

4. The Great Chalice of Antioch, by Dr G. A. Eisen (New York, Kouchakji Freres, 1923), in two folio volumes. The two volumes contain the results of Dr Eisen's investigations into the date of the chalice discovered by a company of Arabs in the valley of the Orontes in 1910. The bowl of the chalice is ornamented with figures said to represent our Lord and the Apostles. The volumes are fine examples of modern typographical art.

5. An early business letter by Robert Owen, "The Socialist", (born at Newtown), written by him in his twenty-second year, when he was manager of the Piccadilly Factory, Manchester (NLW MS 4956C). The letter is described in "The Millgate Monthly" for May 1924, by Mr Arthur Hulme, Marple, near Stockport, from whom the letter was bought. According to Mr Hulme, "the particular interest attached to this document is that it is the earliest known autograph letter of Owen's extant".

6. Spenser, Edmund. The Farie Queen ... Chelsea: Ashendene Press, 1923 (Dept of Printed Books). The text is based upon a collation of the quartos of 1590 and 1596 and the folio of 1609. Printed from the half Gothic subiaco type used by the Ashende ne Press in double columns, with initials, marginal and other notes in red and blue, bound in quarter morocco, vellum sides, folio.

7. Morison, Stanley. Four Centuries of fine printing, Cambridge: 1924 (Dept of Printed Books). A folio volume containing upwards of 600 examples of the work of presses established during the years 1500 to 1914. The text is printed in a Roman type which is an exact reproduction of the letter cut by Francesco Griffo for Aldus Manutius in 1499.

8. Owen, Lewis. The Unmasking of All Popish Monks, Friers, and Jesuits ... London, 1628 (Dept of Printed Books). The author was probably the son of Gruffydd Owen, fourth son of Lewis Owen, baron to the exchequer of Carnarvon, "Y Barwn Owen". Lewis Owen was born 1572 (of a Merionethshire family), and spent some time at Christ Church, Oxford, but left without taking a degree, afterwards travelling for several years on the Continent, making himself familiar with the policy of the Jesuits. Satisfied of their intrigues he became their bitter enemy both in his discourses and writings. The National Library now possesses three works by this noted controversialist, the others being: Running Register, 1626, and Speculum Jesuiticum, 1629.

9. Grammaticae Latinae. Heliae Putschii. Hanoviae, Ioannis Aubrii, 1605 (Dept of Printed Books). Large and fine paper copy, bound by Lewis in full crimson morocco, with doublures beautifully tooled. A good example of the work of the famous English binder Charles Lewis. A note says "This was a presentation copy from Putschius, the Editor, to Scaliger. But Mr Lewis, unfortunately, removed the autograph of Putschius from the Title Page." Charles Lewis bound books for Beckford and the Duke of Portland.
